Choice Hardy Perennial Plants

Following are a few specialties for autumn planting. For full list send for catalogue.

CAMPANULA PERSICIFOLIA "TELHAM BEAUTY"

I am fortunate in having the true stock of this great border plant. Telham Beauty originated in England and was imported in 1899 before the quarantine went into effect. It is the finest form of the Peach-leaved Bellflower known, and is remarkable for the size of its lavender flowers, which are at least twice as large as the ordinary campanula. It does not come true from seed and can only be propagated by division.

Flowers from my plants received an Award of Commendation from the Horticultural Society of New York on June 17, 1931.

I have a limited number of plants to offer this fall.

$10.00 a dozen.

AQUILEGIA (Columbine) All the varieties offered are long spurred, and all are large clumps that will flower next spring.

PENTSTEMON BARBATUS TORREYI (Tall Beard-tongue) One of our best perennials in June and July, with slender swaying stems, four to five feet high, hung with fairy horns of clear, soft coral, giving a rosy, misty effect that is very beautiful. An extremely graceful flower for cutting. Absolutely hardy and easy to grow 3.00 20.00

PHLOX DIVARICATA The "blue" phlox of early May. Ten inches high with large flowers of lovely lavender 3.00 20.00

PHLOX PANICULATA The brilliant tall phlox of mid-summer. See catalogue.

SWEET WILLIAM My plants are grown from Sutton's seeds, the finest strains of Sweet William known. The flowers are large, the colors pure and true to description.

PINK BEAUTY A lovely salmon pink.

FAIRY Delicate salmon pink, much lighter than Pink Beauty.

GIANT WHITE

A NEW VIOLET
HARDY - FRAGRANT - PINK
VIOLA ODORATA
"ROSINA"

This lovely little violet was originated by Mr. Thomas W. Weston, the introducer of Jersey Gen Viola. It has been under observation by Mr. Weston for several years and after thoroughly testing it he has allowed it to be distributed.

"Rosina" is a most delightful introduction and has an assured future in American gardens. As hardy as the wild violet of our woods, it has a fragrance as strong and as delicious as any hot house violet. The color is a soft, yet bright, pink. Quantities of the appealing little flowers appear in spring and again in autumn, and when they are in bloom the air around them is perfumed with their sweetness. It is this sweet scent that will make Rosina beloved in every garden.

It is a very strong grower and can be divided repeatedly. It will stand sun but seems to do rather better when shaded from the hot sun of midsummer.

It will be used in many situations. As an edging to a shady border it is ideal; it is at home in the rock garden; and no doubt it will be naturalized in many a woodland.

$5.00 per dozen

$35.00 per 100

IRIS GERMANICA

(TALL, BEARDED IRIS)

September is the best month of the year in which to plant iris, as it will then have a long growing season in which to prepare for the spring bloom.

The extraordinary improvements that have been made in iris of late years have resulted in flowers of enchanting color, and size, form and fragrance that were undreamed of a few years ago. These modern irises make a veritable fairyland of the garden in May and June.

The many gorgeous and delicate colors and blends of colors are impossible to describe in print, but I have listed a few of the best varieties under each dominant color as an aid in selection.

Not less than six are sold at the dozen rate. Those priced at $2.50 a dozen are sold at $15.00 for 100. Other prices per hundred on application.

A NEW BOOK

"PERENNIAL GARDENS" by the well known landscape architect, H. S. Ortloff, is a splendid little book with many ideas for those who have a vision of a garden, not merely a collection of plants, and who need some help in achieving their ideal. It will be especially helpful to the owner of a small plot, who wants to work out his own ideas of landscaping it. Price $1.25.
